Branching Out

Every year, we grow, we change, we reach for the sun. During the 2024-2025 school year, we broke records. We learned new lessons in the classroom, on the field, on the water, and inside ourselves. We made new friends and supported each other. We looked out at the world around us with interest and hope. We branched out.

Varsity Football

The varsity football team went 4-7 during the regular season. With a completely new football coaching staff, some in the community had low expectations for the season, but the SSC team delivered, going 4-1 at home. The football Rocks also took down tough competition in Moss Point and Mobile Christian and defeated Bay High to win the Crab Trap.

"This season was all about new beginnings. We brought in a full junior high squad, transitioned under new leadership, and faced everything from extreme heat to hurricane delays. But through it all, the team stayed focused and bought into our theme—'Collectively Pursue. Individually Master.' I'm proud of the seniors who led us and the young athletes who are building something special for the future." –Head Coach John Bezou

Rocket League E-Sports

What is Rocket League? It's a game that closely resembles soccer, but the players are cars rather than people, allowing for speed and acrobatics you won't see in FIFA.

Rocket League is challenging, however Saint Stanislaus has a team of students who excel in it. With Sophomore Colin Lyons as the team captain, Rocket League team finished with a 5-6 record, ending the season with a promising victory.

(Above) When asked how he feels about other students joining E-Sports, Colin Lyons reports, "I think its great that other students have the ability to immerse themselves in a competitive environment other than their past-time activities, and students should be able to showcase their talents outside of physical sports."

The Senior Rec Room

Right: Bobby Hebert and Mr. Zwerg play a game of table tennis.

The rec room is the most popular lunchtime activity among the seniors, with table tennis and pool being the most popular activities. The three pool tables and two ping pong tables are always occupied, with a line of seniors waiting for the next turn.

In the rec room, seniors are able to relax their weary minds and enjoy some rest time. Bobby Hebert reports, "Table tennis is my favorite recreational activity and playing it competitively is very exhilarating", Peter Hanlon adds, "I enjoy playing pool very much." Rylan Fairley agrees. "I always look forward to going to the rec room."

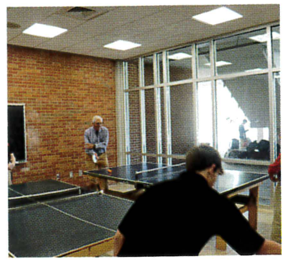
Can you beat Mr. Zwerg?

"Mr.Zwerg is quite the ping pong player, but I'm pretty confident that I can give him a run for his money."
—Derrick Cabbagestalk



"He doesn't stand a chance."
—Evan Noel

"He's pretty good, but I have beat him couple of times and I'm going to beat him today."
—Joseph Giase, Senior

During 5th period lunch, Saint Stanislaus Seniors crowd into the rec room to compete in various games. Ping-pong has a large following, and students fight to earn their spots in the rankings. Our very own Mr. Zwerg harbors a secret talent for ping pong, and students fight every day to beat him.

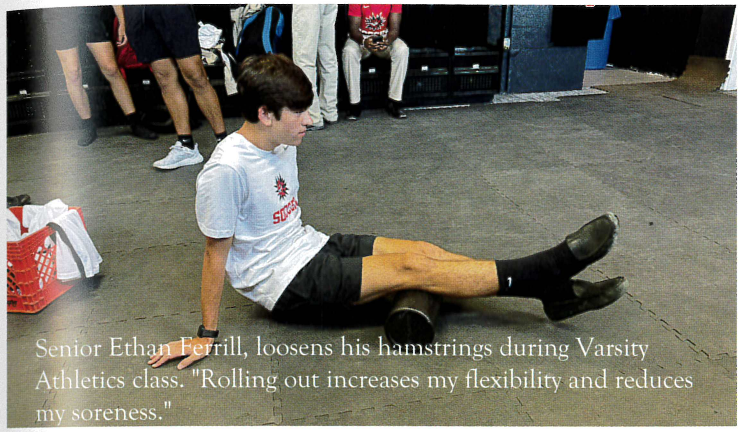
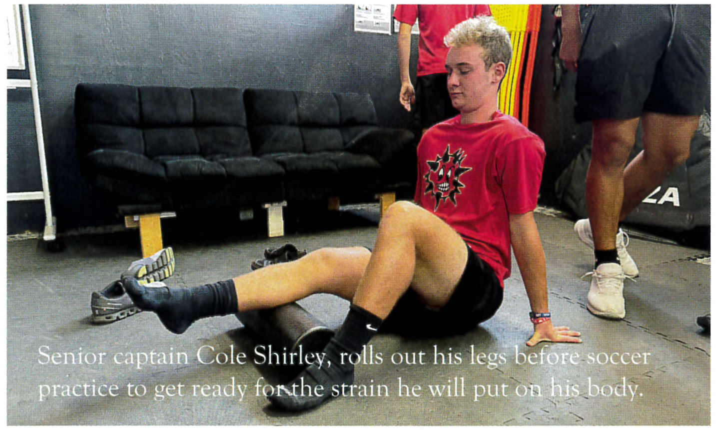
Getting Game-Fit

The SSC soccer team got new foam rollers and stretch bands this year. Senior player, Cole Shirley, says, "Rolling out is a great way to recover your body, get rid of soreness, and prevent injury." Player, Ethan Cuevas adds, "Rolling out and stretching before and after practice has cured my knee pain." These players are learning the effectiveness of taking care of their bodies before and after practice.

Daily use of injury prevention equipment has been a great addition to the soccer program.



Senior Ethan Ferrill, loosens his hamstrings during Varsity Athletics class. "Rolling out increases my flexibility and reduces my soreness."



Senior captain Cole Shirley, rolls out his legs before soccer practice to get ready for the strain he will put on his body.

The SSC Football team has spent the past few years with one set of helmets to use for both home and away games. This wore helmets out more quickly and limited the team on jersey selection. With the addition of the new helmets, the team will be able to change their look and swap out their equipment more frequently.

It is also a place where SSC students can gather, on occasion, for fun special events, to buy some "Dude Food" or to play card, chess, or other table-top games at lunch. The library keeps a collection of games for students to try out, free of charge.

Marine Science

Marine Science at Saint Stanislaus takes a hands-on approach to learning. Throughout the year, students advance their knowledge of nearly every aspect of the ecosystem right outside our campus. Marine Science students have the opportunity to dissect marine organisms and walk to the beach to participate in fieldwork, oyster gardening, and nurdling (collecting plastic pellets that have entered the ocean via spilled shipping containers). These types of fieldwork provide first-hand experience and a help students develop a keen eye for small (or big) marine animals.

Marine Science II students immerse themselves in the local marine estuary environment on a field trip.

Will Sones and Charlie Hoffman open up their squid specimen during dissection.

Kim Kimotho uses a "yabby pump" to catch yabbies, a species of small crustacean that acts as a food source and sand aerator in student tanks.

Marine II students visit "Spat-Tech" the research facility that the SSC Marine Science program partners with for the oyster gardening program

Explore Science Day

The Marine Science Program is an important part of Explore Science Day. Marine Science students take sixth graders to the beach and onto the pier to learn about our marine environment.

Cole Shirley, Oren Doxey, and Bobby Hebert demonstrate how to cast a net.

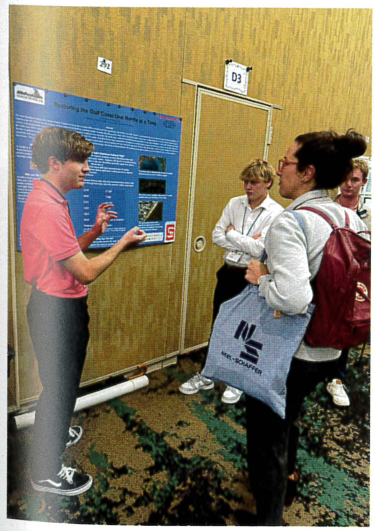
This year, the 2024-2025 Marine Science Interns presented a scientific poster about nurdles at the "Bays & Bayous Symposium" in Biloxi, Mississippi. The symposium, which has taken place annually since 1979, is where "leading scientists, educators and coastal experts... converge to explore, share and learn about the unique ecosystems of the Gulf of Mexico"



Christian Benzing, Sam Pike, and Cole Shirley discuss their nurdle poster.

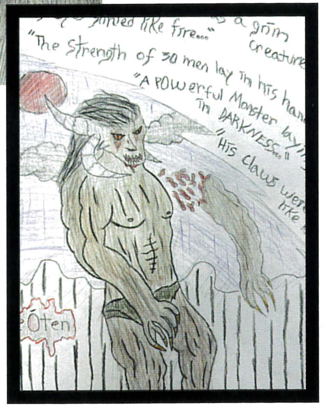
Subject Spotlight: English

As part of their study of Arthurian Legends, Dr Harris' senior English classes were tasked with creating a heraldic design (more commonly known for as a Coat of Arms) for their families. Students could either research their families' existing heraldry or create a new design from scratch.

Every year SSC holds an annual school spelling bee hosted by our English department and administration. Students' knowledge is tested by giving them difficult words. This year's spelling be winner was Pratheek Aai Venkata.



A monstrously good read...

Each year, seniors read the epic poem Beowulf. The story's first villain, Grendel, is not clearly described. Students must draw their vision of Grendel based on quotes from the story. Left: Ryan Calhoun works on his Grendel. Right: Christian Bagala's horned version of the monstrous troll.

Poetry Out Loud

Mr. Hewes' students competed in the national "Poetry Out Loud" competition, which requires students memorize a poem from a list provided by the contest and recite it in front of an audience and judges. School winner Freshman Collen Hooks also won first place in regionals and advanced to the state level with his performance.

When English wasn't English

Seniors learn about the gradual development of the English language, beginning with the Anglo Saxon form of the language, Englisc (commonly known as Old English). Old English was written in both runes & a version of the Latin Alphabet (with a few extra letters). In class, students create a nameplate Old English letters and design elements.

Chemistry and Physics teacher Mr. Anderson gives a demonstration about burning steel wool to Explore Science Day participants.

Science

SSC's science program offers a wide variety of opportunities to expand students' knowledge. From biology and chemistry to physics and STEM, SSC provides students with many ways to explore their interests

1. The robotics department tests a new robot build out.

2. Marine Science students explain what and how they catch species of fish in our Bay.

3. Mr. West's biology class begins a project on mitosis, or the division of cells.

Ambassador Visit

Coach Gex's history class was fortunate enough to have the opportunity to hear from working member of the Foreign Service, Ambassador Timmy Davis, US Ambassador to the country of Qatar.

Ambassador Davis is the father of student Parker Davis. He is a retired member of the US Marine Corps and has held a number of distinguished roles in the US Foreign Service, where he has been recognized with multiple awards for his leadership.

We don't have snow blowers or snow shovels, but we have brooms...

On January 21, 2025, the northern Gulf Coast received a record-shattering six to eight inches of powdery white snow, surpassing records that had remained unbroken since February 1895.

The snow and ice on the ground and roadways "stuck" thanks to multiple days of sub-freezing temperatures in a row, closing schools across the coast for the entire week.

At home and on campus, SSC students and families recorded the snow blanket during the "Snow Day" that became a "Snow Week."

The photos on these pages, taken by members of the SSC student body on and off campus, document the effects of the snowfall and the fun we had with them.

Track and Field

The Track and Field team had an exciting season in 2025, participating in their first indoor meet. The season was filled with new personal records for many athletes and senior Brett Tyler set a new school record in discus with a throw of 160' 10".

During post-season, the team placed 2nd overall at both Regional and Super Regional meets and at South State, the Rocks placed 3rd overall with great performances from Micah Bishop and Brett Tyler who both contributed to over 50% of the teams points. At State, the team was the 3A state runner-up falling behind Tylertown by just 9.5 points. At State, SSC had two individual state champions–Brett Tyler in discus and Micah Bishop in the 110m hurdles.

Pickleball or Golf ?

Pickleball and Golf are popular summer and weekend activities for students.

Golf

Golf is a traditional sport based on technique and skill. It is also a social sport for all ages. Local players mainly hit the links at the Oaks in the Pass, the Diamondhead course, Grand Bear in Gulfport, or PCI in the Pass.

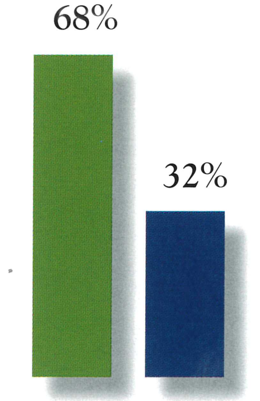
Pickleball

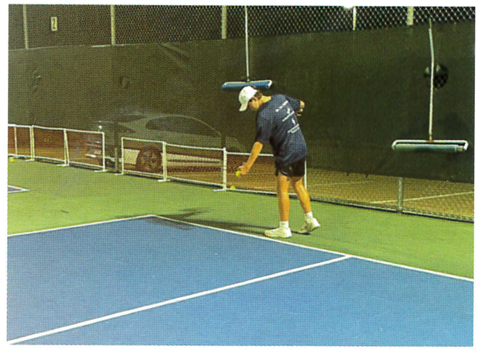
Pickleball is a social sport. People of all ages get involved and compete at all levels. Locals play at the Diamondhead courts, War Memorial Park in the Pass, and at Popps Ferry recreational area in Biloxi.

Jack Lawson wedges it onto the green

Golf has always been a great way to spend time on a sunny day. It can be as rewarding as it is frustrating. Never the less it leads to great bonding with friends and is always available if you have the money to pay for balls, clubs, and tee time.



SSC students preferred golf to pickleball by more than a 2 to 1 margin. According to senior Robert Kergosien, "Nothing can beat a good day for golf"



Bobby Hebert playing at the Pops Ferry Courts in Biloxi

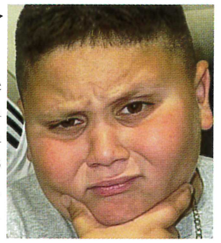
Unlike golf, pickleball can be played round the clock. It is a fun test of hand eye-coordination and personal agility. The surging popularity of pickleball has made headlines in recent years. According to senior Blake Shaw, "Pickleball is a stepping stone towards tennis."

Team Big Justice or the Rizzler ?

Big Justice and The Rizzler are content creators and influencers on all platforms of social media, going around with an aura of positivity. We asked students a simple question: who do you think is better, Big Justice or the Rizzler?

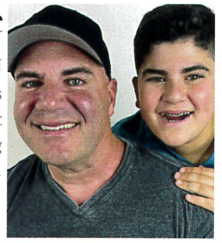
The Rizzler

The Rizzler is the more versatile option, with more to offer. In recent activities, he appeared on Saturday Night Live as well as played basketball for the Knicks, air-balling his first layup.



Big Justice

Big Justice and his counterpart AJ bring the BOOM, always. This dynamic duo roam with internet encouraging their audience to bring the BOOM.



Although the Rizzler lost the popular vote, he put up a strong fight in the polls with students having trouble with their decision between the two.

Noah Babin quotes, "The Rizzler is way better than Big Justice".

Big Justice won the vote by by a large margin receiving 64% of the votes.

As Big Justice fan Waits Murphy says, "We bring the BOOM to Stanislaus!"

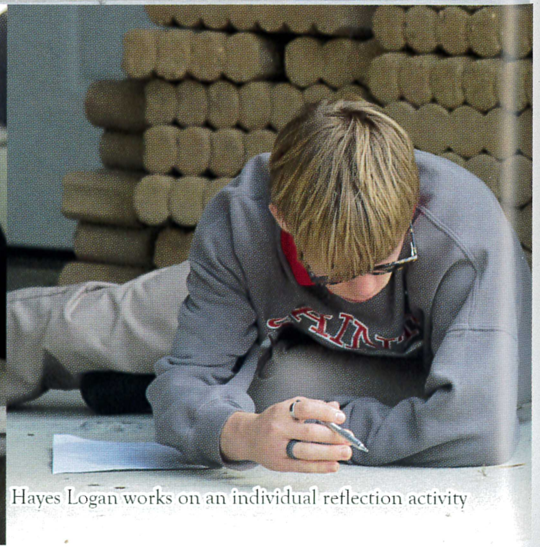
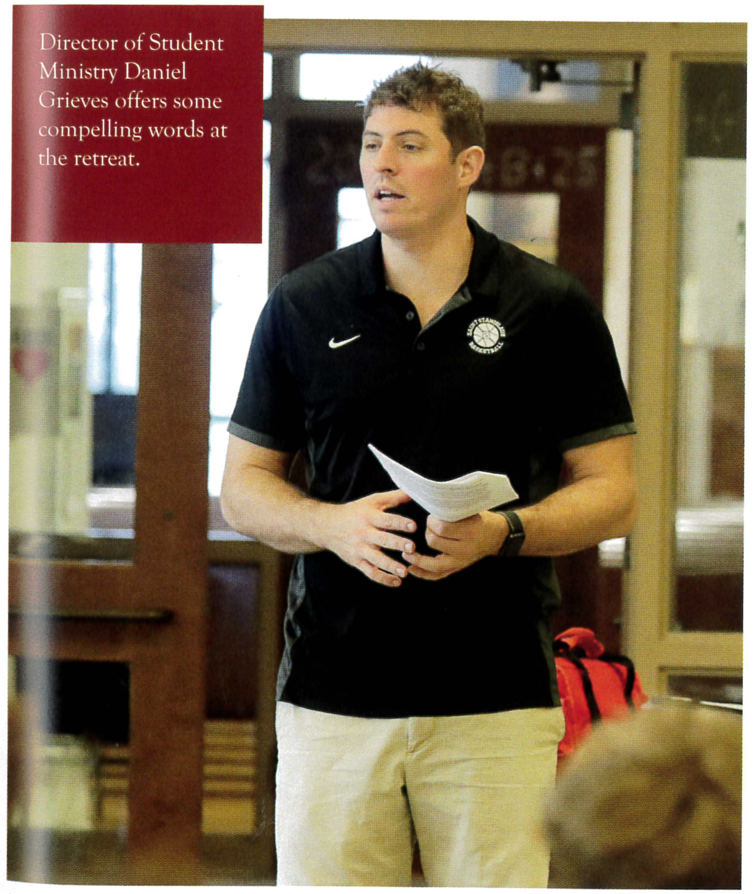
Javien Thompson and Carson Wu answer questions about what was said during the retreat.



Hayes Logan works on an individual reflection activity

During free time, students participate in outdoor activities such as football or just enjoy some time to themselves.

Students form groups to discuss moral and spiritual questions, enhancing their spiritual journey.



Director of Student Ministry Daniel Grieves offers some compelling words at the retreat.

Retreats involve faith formation and class bonding. They are an essential part of the Saint Stanislaus experience.

One of the many religious statues at St. Claire's that create an atmosphere of sanctuary where students can take time for quiet individual reflection.

Tristan Wagner and Peyton Spear reflect on the goals of the retreat.

Student minister Sam Pike has a bonding moment with freshmen David Rimmer and Jackson Orozco.

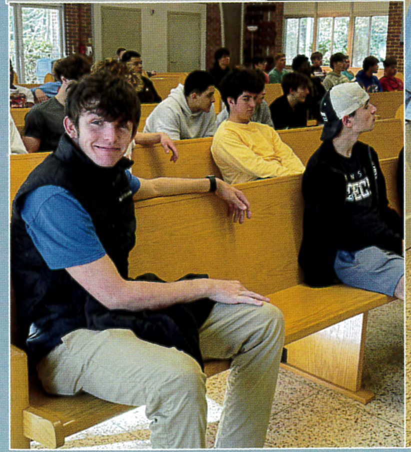
Senior Retreat

The senior class reports to the Camp Abbey chapel. This is where the retreat starts and where seniors will return throughout the day. Here they reflect on themselves and their growth, examining the idea that they are not kids anymore. All seniors have plans for life after SSC. This retreat prepares them for life's challenges, and how to face them with emotional and spiritual maturity as they move beyond the walls of high school.

Prayer Partners

Prayer and reflection are an important part of any religious retreat. During the senior retreat, in addition to praying for their class and their own growth and healing, seniors receive the name of a classmate who will be their prayer partner.

Retreatants pray for their partner throughout the retreat, and at the end of retreat, they offer their retreat cross to their assigned partner as a symbol of the prayers they have offered.



1. Sam Pike picks up the retreat cross he will give to his partner
2. Bobby Hebert records the name of his prayer partner
3. Finn Williford waits for his turn to pick up his cross

Down Time

In addition to prayer, reflection, and discussion, senior enjoy plenty of opportunities to relax, play, and explore the grounds of Camp Abbey.

"...It was the delicacy and tenderness of his compassionate heart that drove him. The heart he found in others, and others saw in him, was the incarnation; Christ present in the distressing guise of troubled and impoverished children." –From an inscription on an icon of Father André Coindre, founder of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart

Beyond Service Hours

Service to others is more than a way to complete a school requirement. Opportunities to grow through service occur as part of our daily lives, in school and outside of it. Here, 8th grader Charlie Thompson prepares to wash a wall as part of a Feast of Saint Stanislaus service project.

BREAKING BREAD

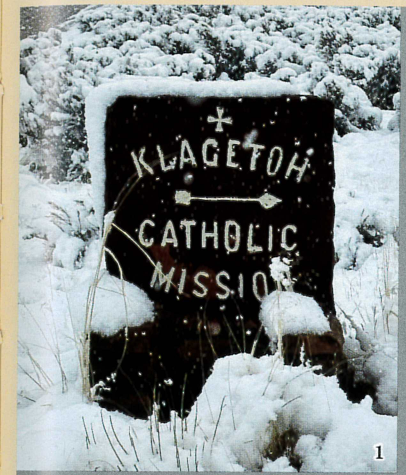
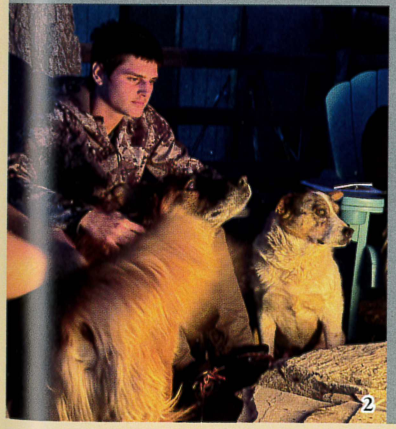
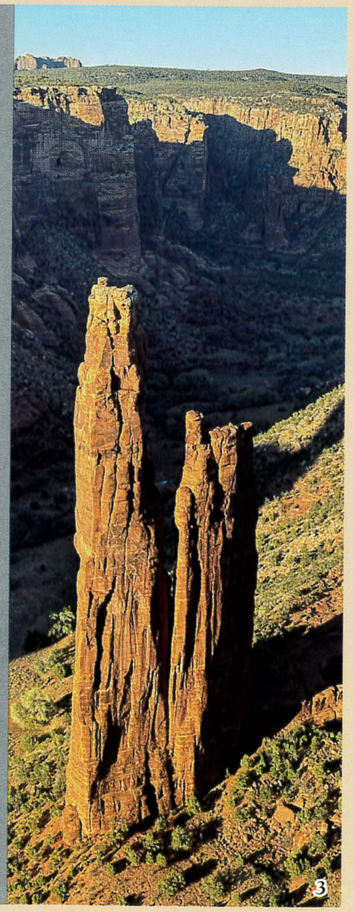
Saint Anne's Mission







1. The missionaries arrived at Klagetoh to heavy snow
2. Red and Brad the mission dogs greeted our students with open arms
3. Students visited Spider Rock, part of Canyon de Chelly National Monument as a side adventure

Sweat Lodge

Students participate in a traditional Navajo ritual, the sweat lodge. It is a time of bonding, prayer, and reflection. "The sweat lodge was amazing" Matthew Fasullo said.

Sacred Fire

During the sweat lodge, a sacred fire is created to heat the rocks used in the sweat.

Traditional meal

Navajo Tacos are a Navajo twist on a familiar favorite. It is an assortment of toppings like salsa, lettuce, beans and tomatoes served on fry bread rather than a tortilla.

4. Students help a local resident clean a sheep paddock as part of their mission work.

Mass

Together in Faith

Tri-School masses give Holy Trinity, Our Lady Academy, and Saint Stanislaus a chance to worship together as a faith family. Above, Deacon Mike Harris offers blessings to HTE students.

SSC is fortunate enough to receive visits from Bishop Louis Kihneman throughout the year. After this mass in January, the bishop met with students at the school to discuss the role of faith in their lives.

During our annual Easter prayer service, we send off our Klagetoh missionaries with blessings and prayers for a successful trip. Here the missionaries gather on the altar steps before having their feet washed by school administrators.

Lift every voice...

Members of the school community sing and play inspirational music during services. 1. Brother Eduardo and Tate Murphy 2. Bennett Favret and Michael Walton 3. Mr. Bob Sayles 4. Coach Ramon Tate, Patrick Glover ,and Michael Walton sing with the SSC choir in the loft at OLG.

Masses and prayer services are planned and led by Campus Minister Daniel Grieves. Above: Coach Grieves offers communion during mass at OLG.

In Service

There are many roles that SSC students can play in the faith life of our school during mass and prayer services. Students can sing in the choir, act as altar servers, lead prayers or readings, or take on the role of Eucharistic Minister.

1. Arthur Chapman offers the host during communion
2. Jack Farr and Extraordinary Ministers from OLA.
3. Blake Shaw offers a blessing
4. Matthew Fasullo gives a reading and Brooks LeBoeuf acts as an altar server
